Thursday, September 1, 2016. Brake lights are coming on over the next two weeks. Trickster Mercury is now Retrograde and appearing to back up in the heavens—delays and confusion in one area of your life are most likely now. Realistic Saturn will square/challenge idealist Neptune next week and that energy is also with us now. Caution lights are up today as a Solar Eclipse and New Moon in Virgo becomes exact at 4:03 AM CDT early Thursday morning. This New Moon opposes dreamy Neptune and squares grumpy Saturn at 6:33 AM. Luna squares Mars at 1:39 PM but trines Pluto at 3 PM and that's the kiss of the day. The Sun squares Saturn at 10:22 PM Thursday night. Pull back today and stay out of the line of fire today. Eclipses are the most powerful lunations. This one sits on the Saturn Neptune square. New Moons tell us to plant seeds. But be careful what you begin/plant over the next two weeks. Is it a rose, or poison ivy? As times change.

Friday, September 2. Mixed signals. The Sun lines up exactly opposite dreamy Neptune at 11:38 AM CDT Friday morning. Forty minutes later clever Retrograde Mercury meets optimistic Jupiter in the heavens. This last pair has great potential. But stick to the facts. Neptune is idealistic and can be deceitful. Jupiter brings an optimistic, devil may care, attitude to our thinking. The best hours of the day follow as the Moon meets both Mercury and lucky Jupiter at 5:13 PM Friday afternoon. Luna turns Void of Course a minute later until she enters peaceful Libra at 7:55 PM Friday evening. Quiet hours follow.

THE WEEKEND: Easygoing. With two reservations. Mercury is Retrograde now and until the 21st. So double-check the details and simplify plans as much as possible this weekend. Also be certain to observe all safety precautions as the Saturn Neptune square brings an accident prone time around water, Neptune's home. That said, the rest of the Skywatch on Saturday is mellow. The Moon meets sweet Venus in the heavens at 6:30 AM CDT and then sails out into calm seas. Luna sextiles or harmonizes with dependable Saturn at 3:55 PM and clear skies follow until the Moon squares grouchy Pluto at 1:39 AM early Sunday morning.

The Moon continues her run though gentle Libra on Sunday. After squaring Pluto she sextiles Mars at 3:13 AM and travels on to oppose unpredictable Uranus at 7:30 PM. Luna turns Void of Course a minute later until she enters Scorpio Monday morning. As times change.

★★★

Monday, September 5. Very quiet. The Moon enters intense Scorpio at 7:38 AM CDT ending the Void of Course cycle from last evening. Green lights are up as she sails out into calm seas for the rest of the day and night—a somewhat rare day this is. It is a good one for thinking and reviewing your ideas as that's how we use the energy of Mercury Retrograde to our advantage. Scorpio energy brings the emotional side of things to the discussions we have today—reviewing feelings from the past also opens the door to positive changes—all Retrograde cycles tend to bring matters of the past back into our lives, hopefully to heal, forget and forgive. As times change.

★

Tuesday, September 6. Green lights. Here's a good day for important appointments, calls and travel. The Moon trines psychic dream maker Neptune at 4:46 AM CDT early Tuesday morning and then sails out into calm seas. Two sextiles show up early this afternoon; sextiles bring good time to follow a new opportunity or to push new ideas into the discussion. Luna sextiles the Sun at 1:06 PM, and then sextiles healing Pluto at 2:01 PM. These are good times to take action and to ask for what you want. More good energy fills the Skywatch this evening as the Sun lines up in a trine to Pluto just after midnight. Minor miracles, solutions and powerful encounters always follow Pluto around—reach out Tuesday night. As times change.

Wednesday, September 7. Get an early start. The Skywatch is excellent this morning—green lights are up. Sweet Venus makes a sextile to practical Saturn at 6:34 AM CDT this morning—the good vibes here will reach out into the first contacts you have today. Plus the Moon sextiles clever Mercury at 11:38 AM. Yes, Mercury is still Retrograde—double-check the critical details as errors are more likely, but go ahead and make the important call then. Evening hours have a pleasant sextile between the Moon and generous Jupiter at 7:43 PM. Luna then turns Void of Course until she enters Sagittarius at 8:20 PM. A splash of upbeat energy follows—you might stay up late tonight.

If your birthday is this week (Sept 4–10), you are going to get tested in the months ahead, Virgo. The Saturn Neptune square sitting in the heavens now becomes a part of your new Solar Return. Saturn is a realistic guy. Neptune is Johnny Depp and can't be depended on to come through when he sits in a challenging square. And with Mercury Retrograde in this chart of your new year, it is critical that you take your time and carefully analyze your moves and the possibilities before you take action. You have a wonderful trine to your Sun from Pluto in this new SR. This usually means the boss likes you and wants more of your work. Yes, yes, yes. And sweet Venus is in Libra, her home sign, in your new SR. She will help you clean up your act and maybe introduce you to someone unusually important, if you will take time off work to go look, Virgo. The outcome is up to you; be shrewd and you can avoid the pitfalls and enjoy a banner year. As times change.

Thursday, September 8. Strange. A powerful square that has been around—first exact last Thanksgiving—now takes the stage for the last curtain call. Practical Saturn makes a challenging square to idealistic Neptune this Saturday morning. Vibes will be strange, confused, dialed out—people and events may not be what they seem in the face of this square, especially with Mercury now Retrograde. Neptune rules your sleep and dreams, drugs, booze, deception and is likely to cloud the issue and inspire some folks to escape and avoid their responsibilities—Saturn. For most of us, this is not a good time to make major decisions or purchases or to let fear take hold when things are going along quite well. This square has a negative, fearful, cynical side—the political arena has certainly delivered this message to us while in power. Tackle the hard jobs first thing Thursday morning as the Moon in optimistic Sagittarius motors through calm waters. The Moon meets up with the Saturn Neptune square at 5:21 PM CDT this afternoon and it's a poor time to conduct business or to order a pizza. A little kiss shows up at 8:54 PM when the Moon sextiles sweet Venus. Cookie jar raids are likely then. As times change.

Friday, September 9. Ouch! Caution lights are up on Friday. The Moon squares the Sun at 6:49 AM CDT and then meets impatient Mars in the heavens at 10:11 AM Friday morning. And with Mercury Retrograde now we can expect traffic problems and a rather sharp, unpleasant tone to early calls and meetings. The Saturn Neptune square also slimes us with fear or unrealistic assumptions today—don't buy in to the negativity that is around you. Good news? We've got some as lucky Jupiter enters partnership sign Libra early this morning. It's a quiet event but does turn our attention to relationships as Jupiter travels through the sign ruled by sweet Venus for the next 12 months. Styles will change as Venus rules art and fashion statements. Libra is refined; pastels and especially rose are the colors favored by this sign. Who you know may be the key to fulfilling your dreams in the months ahead—this is going to be a very good time to network and to meet new faces. Communication problems are more likely Friday evening as the Moon squares Mercury Rx at 7:26 PM. A trine to friendly Uranus follows at 7:51 PM but Luna turns Void of Course thereafter. Be careful and cool Friday night as the big square can make small problems get way out of hand.

THE WEEKEND: The Moon is Void of Course from last night until she enters Capricorn at 7:55 AM CDT Saturday morning. The Saturn Neptune square follows at 8:10 AM. The Moon squares Jupiter twelve minutes later. Caution lights are up on Saturday—keep it simple and double-check the details if you are making purchases today. Errors and omissions are more likely with confusing Neptune on stage—strange sleep and dreams are more likely now, too. Another stress marker powers up Saturday afternoon as Venus moves into a square with demanding Pluto, exact at 2:45 AM early Sunday morning. Sexual violence, fraud, bouts of jealousy and revenge—let’s stop the list right there as this square amps up the potential trouble from Saturn and Neptune. Be safe, cool and very careful Saturday night.

It’s 9/11. The Venus Pluto square early Sunday morning hangs out as we start the day. The Moon meets this square in early afternoon hours as Luna conjuncts Pluto at 12:36 PM and then squares lazy Venus at 1:40 PM. The mood lightens once we get past these markers, but not by much. The kiss of the day shows up Sunday night as the Sun and Moon form a welcome trine at 9:36 PM. Luna will also trine Mercury Rx just after midnight—that’s when we are more likely to get the real story. As times change.

★ ★ ★

Monday, September 12. Stick to routine. The confusion level is high today as the Moon is in the unfocused Void of Course cycle from 5 AM CDT until she enters Aquarius at 4:29 PM Monday afternoon. Plus, Mercury is still Retrograde which increases the chances of errors, misunderstandings, inaccurate assumptions and judgments. And in this VC window of time impatient Mars makes a square to Mercury Rx at 1:59 PM. Quack, quack is what you hear from most folks in this situation, so this is a lousy time to speak up or to state your case. This is when people say things they wish they hadn’t—a Mercury Rx specialty. The best hours of the day show up once the Moon enters Aquarius and makes a sterling trine to optimistic Jupiter at 5:50 PM. The Sun meets Mercury Rx in the heavens at 6:40 PM making this a very good time to listen in and to explain your story. Clear skies follow. As times change.

Tuesday, September 13. Slow down. The Moon is in friendly Aquarius today suggesting a good day to check in with friends and groups whose cause we espouse. Luna sextiles practical Saturn at 11:30 AM CDT and then sails out into quiet seas. The stress in today’s Skywatch comes from a square between the egotistical Sun and hot-tempered Mars, exact at 3:39 PM Tuesday afternoon. Fights on the playground, accidents involving fire, metal and tools, machinery breakdowns, hasty decisions that create more problems than they solve—all more likely to show up in the hours preceding this square. Use the energy in the square by getting your hands dirty in a new task or by getting focused on fixing something—squares have energy, but need to be directed and that’s not always easy when you have a boss screaming at you as will be the case with some today. Leos will be tempted to roar and I’d think twice about doing it. Evening hours are much better for social discourse as Luna trines loving Venus at 1:41 AM early Wednesday morning. And times change.

Wednesday, September 14. Tackle the hard jobs first thing. The Skywatch is clear and very good for work or play Wednesday morning. The Moon sextiles eager Mars and then friendly Uranus at 10:31 AM CDT. But Luna turns Void of Course a minute later until she enters water sign Pisces at 9:23 PM this evening. Stick to routine while the Moon is V/C and hold off on finalizing matters as you may change your mind or want to take a different approach once Mercury turns back direct in motion on Sept 21. Trust me, it happens all the time. Chop wood, carry water is a good way to spend V/C hours. An old movie, ruled by Pisces, could catch your interest tonight.

If your birthday is this week (Sept 11–17), don’t be hasty or impatient with others and your plans in the months ahead, Virgo. You’ve got two squares to Mars in this chart of your new year—one to your Sun and the other to Retrograde Mercury. Squares give you power but you’ve got to analyze the situation carefully before you take action or you are liable to miss a good opportunity to find love and a financial increase. That’s due to sweet Venus in her home sign of Libra lining up in a welcome sextile to Mars in this new SR. Sextiles bring new opportunities. Venus loves to be loved. Moreover, lucky Jupiter is also in Libra in your new SR doubling your chances of finding healthy and loving partnerships in work and play. Looking ahead: powerful Pluto will begin to trine your Sun two years from now which brings many folks their finest hour. What you do this year can make this splendid event up ahead even more rewarding. As times change.

★

Thursday, September 15. Tackle the hard jobs first thing. Caution lights come on as the Moon runs into the unfocused Saturn Neptune square Thursday afternoon. A mix-up or some kind of confusion is likely as the Moon in spacey Pisces meets Neptune, the ruler of Pisces, at 2:46 PM CDT. Luna then squares grumpy and cynical Saturn at 3:25 PM. Emotions are likely to get in the way of logic around these markers; Mercury Retrograde now keeps the blender of ideas spinning. Plus, a Full Moon will hang out in the heavens tonight. One positive note: the Moon sextiles healing Pluto at 10:35 PM. Clouds begin to roll in thereafter as stress levels rise; play it safe and cool Thursday evening. You’ll hear sirens in the city tonight. As times change.

Friday, September 16. Take your time with calls and chores today. The Moon in dreamy Pisces opposes Retrograde Mercury at 2:46 AM CDT, and then squares hasty Mars at 12:17 PM. Luna travels on to oppose the Sun and a Full Moon is born at 2:05 PM Friday afternoon. Emotions will be in the foreground today and not necessarily the most honest ones. The Moon turns Void of Course a minute later until she enters fired up Aries, ruled by Mars, at 11:22 PM Friday evening. Meanwhile, Mars is lining up in a trine to unpredictable Uranus, exact at 2:04 AM early Saturday morning. This is a lot of Mars energy on the street Friday night as the trine generates power and initiative—but no direction. Stick to routine today and don’t be surprised if someone shoots out the lights tonight. Mars rules guns and the cops.

THE WEEKEND: Improvement. The Skywatch begins to clear up on Saturday. The Mars Uranus trine early Saturday morning is followed by the Moon opposing Jupiter at 2:06 AM. The Skywatch clears a few minutes later and green lights come on for work or play. The kiss of the day appears at 4:54 PM when the Moon trines/harmonizes with practical Saturn. A new alignment powers up in the hours that follow as Venus moves into an opposition to Uranus, exact at 3:06 AM early Sunday morning. All aspects, depending on the strength of the planets, are strongest in the hour or hours or days preceding exact. So there’s an element of rebellion and an inclination to “take a walk on the wild side” in the Skywatch Saturday night. One hot spot appears when the Moon squares inflexible Pluto at 11:38 PM. Not the best night for introductions as who you meet may not be who they seem, especially with Mercury Retrograde.

The Skywatch is still a bit unsettled Sunday morning as the smoke from a Venus Uranus opposition hangs in the air. Don't be surprised if something unexpected pops up today. As the Moon will conjunct/meet Uranus in the heavens at 1:32 PM and then oppose Venus at 2:30 PM. A high energy Moon Mars trine follows at 3:10 PM but Luna then turns Void of Course until midnight. Keep it simple Sunday night with a V/C Moon and Mercury Retrograde. Let times change.

Monday, September 19. A turning of the tide. The most difficult days of the month are now in our rear view mirror. Green lights are up on Monday for work or play. The Moon enters favorite sign Taurus early this morning and sails out into calm seas. Agreeable Venus sextiles Mars at 6:53 AM CDT telling you to tackle high priority needs first thing. Trust your instincts as the Moon sextiles psychic Neptune at 4:26 PM. Stay up and you'll enjoy the Moon making a trine to healing Pluto just past midnight. Plus, Luna will trine Retrograde Mercury 30 minutes later. This is a good night to say what's on your mind. And to listen carefully to what others are saying. As times change.

★

Tuesday, September 20. Saddle up. The Moon in sensual Taurus wanders out into a quiet part of the heavens on Tuesday. So this is a good day to deal with financial concerns, buying and selling and eating anything that makes you feel better, like chocolate. An unusual event in the heavens takes place today and this week. Retrograde Mercury makes a trine to powerful Pluto at 8:41 PM CDT Tuesday night. Pluto gets to the bottom of the story and is an excellent researcher—this energy is on the deck for you to use over the next four days as Mercury stops his Retrograde motion sitting right on this trine and will make the exact hit again, this time direct in motion this Friday. Words have power is one way to interpret this trine. Let's all pay attention to the ideas, new thoughts and what comes down in the world over the next four days. It's time to cut to the chase, I think. Another kiss appears Tuesday night as the Sun and Moon trine at 10:32 PM. As times change.

Wednesday, September 21. A turning point. Green lights. The Moon enters talkative Gemini early this morning and trines optimistic Jupiter at 5:08 AM CDT Wednesday morning. Clear skies follow until Luna squares dreamy Neptune at 5:43 PM and then opposes grumpy Saturn at 7:13 PM. The space between these events helps minimize their importance. The main event in the Skywatch today is Mercury turning back to direct motion at 12:31 AM early Thursday morning. That means Mercury is stationary tonight and trine Pluto. Stay focused and you're bound to make some progress today and tonight. Gemini and Virgo birth signs, ruled by Mercury, especially.

If your birthday is this week (Sept 18–24), the splendid Mercury Pluto trine is a crown jewel in your new Solar Return, late Virgo and early Libra birth signs. Mercury is in Virgo and Pluto is in Capricorn = earth signs that are realistic, practical and give you the ability to solve problems and get to the essence of a situation—X-Ray vision is the idea. So this is a very good year to write your book and to ask for what you want. A simple idea here, but say it out loud. Say it often. Pluto rules your will power. Words said out loud direct your will to your desires. Another excellent planetary combination in this chart of your new year is Venus sextile Mars. A sextile signals a year of opportunity. Venus rules love and money. Mars rules new events and has positive energy to help you get what you want. Say it out loud, Virgo and Libra. As times change.

★

Thursday, September 22. Better days are ahead. Mercury turned back to direct motion early this morning and will now slowly move back into the exact trine to Pluto over the next 24 hours. Moreover, the Sun enters Libra at 9:22 AM CDT and we celebrate the Autumnal Equinox and a change of seasons this morning. Green lights are up on Thursday. It's an excellent day to put new ideas into motion and for priority appointments and meetings. The Moon in clever Gemini sails out into calm seas Thursday morning. She will sextile friendly Uranus at 4:11 PM suggesting a good time for an important request or call. Luna opposes impatient Mars at 10:53 PM Thursday evening. Talk out any problems that come up tonight as Mercury again makes a quiet but valuable trine to Pluto, exact at 3:36 AM early Friday morning. As times change.

★

Friday, September 23. A grumpy start. The Moon enters home sign Cancer at 3:33 AM CDT early this morning and promptly runs into a square to the Sun at 4:46 AM, followed by a square to Jupiter at 8:48 AM. Green lights come on a few minutes later for work or play as the Skywatch clears completely for the rest of the workday. Evening hours have a kiss: Moon trine romantic and creative Neptune, exact 9:06 PM. Notable: Venus enters intense and often jealous Scorpio at 9:51 AM this morning and will travel through this powerful sign until Oct 18.

THE WEEKEND: Easygoing. The Moon in Cancer opposes Pluto and sextiles Mercury at 6:15 AM CDT Saturday morning. Likely you'll sleep through it. Clear skies follow, green lights are up, and we have an excellent day to putter around the house and to take care of personal and family concerns—ruled by Cancer. The only stress marker in the heavens is minor: Moon square unpredictable Uranus, exact at 8:42 PM. Could be a surprise you like. Luna then turns Void of Course until tomorrow morning.

The Moon enters proud Leo at 8:48 AM Sunday morning ending the V/C cycle that started yesterday. Green lights are up on Sunday. Luna squares Venus at 1:36 PM which puts the lazy vibe in all of us. However, the Moon sextiles the Sun at 2:33 PM and Jupiter at 3:14 PM setting up a lovely afternoon for social plans and introductions. Especially since the Sun moves into the place in the Zodiac where lucky Jupiter is sitting. This conjunction/meeting happens once every year and becomes exact in the heavens at 1:59 AM early Monday morning. Jupiter inspires a positive attitude in all of us and sparks our desire to gamble and to explore new ideas and worlds. The worst thing you can do on Sunday is the same old thing. Sunday is a wonderful day to explore and adventure. As times change.

★ ★ ★

Monday, September 26. The coast is clear. The Sun Jupiter conjunction in the heavens early this morning could spark some new ideas and give you an extra shot of energy as you start your day. The Moon in Leo trines practical Saturn at 5:34 AM CDT and then sails out into calm seas for the rest of the day and night. Green lights are up and this is a good day to talk to the boss or an authority figure—or to be one your self. Leo is also the sign we associate with children and our creative gifts/talents—good places to put some energy today and tonight. As times change.

Tuesday, September 27. Hold your horses. The Moon trines Uranus at 3:52 AM CDT early Tuesday morning and then turns Void of Course until she enters Virgo at 4:43 PM this afternoon. Stick to routine and hold off on making important decisions and purchases while the Moon is V/C. Green lights come back on as the Moon changes signs. The kiss of the day appears at 5:27 PM when the Moon trines Mars and we all get charged up for better or worse. Notable: Mars enters his favorite sign, Capricorn, early this morning. Amateur hour is over. He will travel through this earth sign over the next six weeks, leaving Capricorn at midnight on the day of the election. Mars will thus be exactly inconjunct Trump's Ascendant of 29 Leo on election day—not a good sign but not necessarily indicating a loss. Just a piece of the puzzle astrologers are working on. As times change.

Wednesday, September 28. Partly cloudy. The Moon in practical Virgo sextiles Venus at 3:46 AM CDT early this morning and sails out into calm seas. Green lights are up. Note that Luna opposes dreamy Neptune at 11:47 AM which could lead to a small misunderstanding. Double-check the details around this moment. Another cloud shows up at 2:42 PM when the Moon squares grumpy Saturn which can turn some folks into cynics with a negative point of view. But Moon aspects fade quickly and you'll enjoy the rest of the day and night as Luna speeds away from the square into quiet waters until she makes a lovely trine to healing Pluto at 9:24 PM. Here's a good time to say what you feel and think.

If your birthday is this week (Sept 25–Oct 1), you've got lucky Jupiter sitting next to your Sun in your new Solar Return, Libra. Jupiter urges you to travel, increase your education, publish your book or work and to give yourself a chance to win in whatever way possible. This Jupiter connection only happens once every 12 years. The Sun is also a symbol of bosses and men who will be on your side in the months ahead if you do the work. The Mercury Pluto trine in the heavens now also becomes part of this SR, the chart of your new year. Take a class, hit the bookstore, write a novel—Mercury's ability to assimilate new information is turbo charged by the trine. Your ruler, Libra, is Venus. And in your new SR she is in the sign of intense and passionate Scorpio; your relationships are going to get better or worse depending on how you handle matters when feelings are hurt and jealousy becomes an issue. As times change.

Thursday, September 29. Stick to routine. Caution lights are up as the Moon meets Mercury in the heavens at 5:05 AM CDT and then turns Void of Course until tomorrow morning. Our intuition and judgment are not sharp and focused when the Moon is V/C. So this is a good day chop wood, carry water—and to hold off on making important purchases or decisions. We are in the Dark of the Moon today, the lowest point in her energy cycle. So get your rest tonight. A new cycle begins tomorrow with positive energy we all can use. As times change.

Friday, September 30. A day of Grace. The Moon enters gentle Libra at 2:52 AM CDT early this morning and promptly runs into a square to impatient Mars at 6:58 AM. Quack! But that's the last of the bad news on Friday. Green lights come on a few minutes later as Luna quickly motors out into calm seas. She will meet/conjunct lucky Jupiter in the heavens at 11:54 AM and travel on to meet the Sun at 7:11 PM creating a New Moon. New Moons bring times to plant seeds and to initiate new ideas. Lucky Jupiter is riding shotgun with this New Moon suggesting a very good day and two-week period up ahead to take action and to find new partners in love and biz—that's a Libra specialty. Yes, yes, yes. This is a stellar day and night for important appointments, meetings, sales calls, beauty treatments, cosmetic surgery and all social plans—reach out. As times change.

LOOKING AHEAD TO OCTOBER: You'll meet Mars in October. He spends the entire month in his favorite sign, Capricorn, which he visits for six weeks once every two years. Mars rules your muscles and he brings high energy and the courage to blaze a new trail or to start a major new event in your life in October. When he aligns in harmony with Neptune on Oct 11, we get a day of Grace. Mars energy always shows up a day or so ahead of the exact alignment with other planets. His positive connections typically make matters easier to deal with and usually bring help in some form.

Mars is a bully, a tyrant and aggressive as he squares Jupiter on Oct 5 and can be violent and destructive as he squares Uranus in Aries, the sign he rules, on Friday night, Oct 28. Road rage and worse are likely on both days and again on Oct 19 when Mars meets powerful Pluto in the heavens. These aspects appear in the Skywatch once every year or two; you've seen them come and go. Best still to note them in your calendar. This is when shit happens.

A big surge of rebellious and explosive energy lights up the Skywatch as the Full Moon in Aires is conjunct eccentric Uranus on Oct 15. Not a good day to travel or to handle important matters. Computer problems and communication breakdowns issue from Mercury squaring Pluto at the same time. This Full Moon creates a giant Cardinal T-Square with seven of the ten planets (calling the Sun and Moon planets for convenience) in signs that want to take action but also form squares to Mars and Pluto who don't agree.

Positive changes in your life are just as likely with Uranus on board this month. The squares have the power to push you away from your failures and towards the better paths to follow. Look at your history and you will find that some of the best decisions you ever made happened during squares when there were challenges that made you look at the truth. Mars gives you the energy to leave losing ideas and people behind and to find the guts to stay committed to the destiny you desire. For some this is "wake-up time."

All this Capricorn energy also pushes you into making choices: What is priority in your life? In your job, your relationships, your spiritual quest, on and on. What really matters and what are you wasting your time on? Seven planets in Cardinal signs suggest a very, very good month to take action and to make changes that keep you on the path to your destiny.

A sneaky Jupiter Neptune inconjunct appears in the Skywatch on Oct 22–23 and will be a factor for a few days. Something confusing or deceptive issues from this pair. Strange sleep and dreams, too. I'll have more details in the daily reports on this one. Best if you don't plan anything complicated, dangerous or first time that weekend.

OCTOBER KISS DAYS: 3, 4, 10+, 11+, 30+. Add the 26th as the morning hours are stellar but the Moon turns V/C at noon. A New Moon aligned positively with spiritual and creative Neptune headlines the 30th. This is a stellar day for something artistic, musical, charitable and visionary.

OCTOBER QUACK DAYS: 5+, 7+, 15+, 22, 23, 28+, 29. Stick to routine on the + days and you'll likely skip the high drama that develops from the sharp challenges in the Skywatch then. Headaches are certain for some folks who won't slow down—accidents, too. Be safe and don't speed or push your luck on these days.
